Product Description

The bell-shaped piece has reference to the traditional pendant lamp and the heyday of 1970s lighting design; however, in a modern interpretation. A unique detail is the opening on the top with an overhanging collar that reminds of a jar such as a vase or an amphora. The mainly downwards directed light from conventional pendant lamps does in this design also spread out of the spout-like opening and casts a smooth light gradient at the wire and ceiling. The hand-turned aluminum lamp shade with a matte lacquer almost makes it look as if it was made of ceramics. Canopy included. The textile cord is black, except for matte white which matches the shade.

Light Bulb: Max 60W-Incandescent, 40-60W Halogen or 6-10W LED, E26 socket (Not Included)
