Product Description

As a variation on the same theme, Sigmund continues his introspective journey through form and use. Alongside the two models proposed in 2018, its extension designed as a tribute to Freud is completed in 2019 with a desk, a low table, and a side table. The structural principles remain unchanged: tops suspended on a lacquered metal structure and brass screws that join the various components. As if to complete the words of the most famous of the psychoanalysts, each floor now passes from marble. A sensual marble, a table of truth, which perfectly illustrates the Freudian saying: "desire is the most common generator of dreams". The collection includes: bench, daybed, desk, coffee, and side table. Designed in 2019.
